

Ending Child Hunger & Poverty Real Solutions, Now

A discussion in collaboration with the Witnesses to Hunger
Exhibit now open in the Fox Art Gallery.

In Philadelphia, one in three children is living in poverty, and one in five does not have adequate access to enough food for an active and healthy life. Hunger and poverty are not inevitable. They are political problems with political solutions. Ending poverty in Philadelphia and in the United States requires creative thinking and organizing to address a multifaceted and solvable problem.

Join area experts, advocates and policy makers as we discuss city, state and national goals, strategies, and bench marks for ending child hunger and poverty.

April 27th at 12pm

Terrace Rm, Cohen Hall, 249 South 36th St.

Lunch will be provided.

Please RSVP to cphi@pobox.upenn.edu

Photos property of:

Witnesses to Hunger
a project of
Drexel University School of Public Health